Building a new future with your help

FOUNDATION
TRUST

Royal National Orthopaedic Hospital
NHS Trust

The RNOH is working towards becoming an NHS Foundation Trust

Make our wish to become a Foundation Trust a reality

Become a member and be a part of our hospital's future

As a Foundation Trust, the RNOH will be:

- Free from government control
- Able to use any financial surpluses we make to develop services to suit the needs of our patients
- Part of the NHS and subject to NHS quality standards, performance ratings and systems of inspection
- Accountable to our members (staff, patients, carers and members of the public) and an elected Council of Governors

Becoming a Foundation Trust will mean:

- Patient services will be improved
- A brand new hospital will be built at Stanmore
- We can plan our future in consultation with our patients, staff, members of the public and partner organisations

The role of our members will include:

- Working with us on plans and proposals to improve patients' experience
- Attending special members' events and workshops to share your ideas and suggestions
- Electing governors or becoming a governor yourself
- Taking part in discussions and influencing proposed changes to services along with our plans to develop the hospital

Join us and be a part of our hospital's future by completing the membership form
